

That Poor Dream is a theatrical reimagining of Charles Dickens' Great Expectations (1860) that combines text from the original novel with material developed and devised by The Assembly inspired by the following sources:

- The Autobiography of Malcolm X, as told to Alex Haley
- "Born Rich," directed by Jamie Johnson
- Capital, by Thomas Piketty
- "Great Expectations" (1946), directed by David Lean
- "Great Expectations" (1998), directed by Alfonso Cuarón
- "It's the Inequality, Stupid," by Dave Gilson & Carolyn Perot (Mother Jones: March/April 2011)
- "Building a Better America—One Wealth Quintile at a Time," by Michael I. Norton & Dan Ariely (Perspectives on Psychological Science: January 2011)
- The New Jim Crow, by Michelle Alexander
- "Of the 1%, by the 1%, for the 1%," by Joseph E. Stiglitz (Vanity Fair: May 2011)
- "The One Percent," directed by Jamie Johnson
- "Paper Boys," by Jake Halpern (The New York Times Magazine: August 15, 2014)
- "Pip." (South Park), by Trey Parker
- "The Queen of Versailles," directed by Lauren Greenfield
- The Rich and the Rest of Us, by Tavis Smiley & Cornel West
- "Wealth Inequality in America," by politizane (YouTube)
- "The Wire," created by David Simon